U.S. Army expands enlistment bonuses

FORT KNOX, Ky. – The U.S. Army Recruiting Command today announced the expansion of its bonuses for applicants with more than 30 college semester hours to all of its military occupational specialties (MOS).

Qualified applicants holding bachelors' degrees can now earn $8,000 for enlisting, regardless of the MOS they choose. Associate or two-year degree holders can earn $7,000. Qualified high school graduates with 60 or more college semester hours can qualify for a $6,000 bonus, and those with 30 to 59 college semester hours can earn $3,000 for joining the U. S. Army.

In addition, recruits may be qualified for other cash enlistment incentives, such as attending training quickly or selecting high-priority or high-demand job specialties. The maximum combination of cash bonuses for an enlistment of four or more years is $20,000 and the maximum for a three-year enlistment is $10,000 for most of the Army's more than 150 entry level jobs and $15,000 for some high-priority jobs.

These cash enlistment incentives may also be combined with either the Army's Loan Repayment Program or the Army College Fund, but not both. The Loan Repayment Program can repay up to $65,000 in qualifying student loans, and the Army College Fund offers up to $70,000 for higher education.
